USA Today, National Sports Journalism Center
students team to update NCAA financial databaseUSA Today* | May 9, 2013 11:42 a.m.

This spring, graduate students at the Indiana University School of Journalism at Indianapolis in the Money and Collegiate Sports course joined with USA Today to collect financial information from the 228 public Division I athletic departments. That information was used to update USA Today's college sports database for 2012 and led to an extensive front-page story by USA Today's Steve Berkowitz, Jodi Upton, and Erik Brady as well as multiple other feature stories.

This is the third year of the partnership between USA Today and the NSJC. The work done by this year's NSJC students Lauren Ely, Keshu Feng, Daniel Frank, Steven Hatfield, Angela Hawkins, Candace Inghram, Brittany Johnson, Joey Lamar, Erica Rath, Patrick Campbell Robbins and Matthew Velazquez helped demonstrate that NCAA revenue is at an all-time high and that spending has also increased.
